

15.04.2022 № 484/PD/GAA

Review

on educational programme of higher education in the direction of training "Mining Engineering", Bachelor of Mining Engineering and Technology, developed by the Department "Mining" of K.I. Satpayev Kazakh National Research Technical University

The presented educational program is aimed at formation and development of graduate's professional competence and was drawn up taking into account the qualifier of specialty.

The structure of the educational programme is consistent with the requirements, it contains the purpose and objectives of the programme, objects and types of professional activities, curriculum, descriptors of the level and scope of knowledge, skills and abilities. The content of the programme includes all technological processes of open, underground and geotechnological methods of solid minerals mining, construction of mines and underground structures, surveying in accordance with the current level of development of science, technology and industry.

The programme material is presented in an accessible form and built in a logical sequence.

The educational programme clearly demonstrates the use of active and interactive forms of classes, including discussions, business games, case studies and provides for professional and practical training of students in the form of practice, namely internships, industrial practice.

In general, the reviewed educational programme is methodologically competent, meets the basic requirements of professional standards and contributes to the formation of general professional, professional competencies in the direction of training "Mining Engineering".

Director

B. Bakhramov